The Evening Post.

WILMINGTON, N. C.

Tuesday, October 14th, 1873.

The accounts from Memphis are appalling. Every concomitant of pestilence stalks the streets of the stricken city. Fear has taken possession of many, and safety is sought in flight.—The hearses are well nigh the only vehicles which are seen, and the swiftness of their movements indicates the pressure of business. Want of those things which money can purchase is felt. The favored need only to be informed of the destitution to relieve it.

The State Fair which is held this week promises to be the greatest enterprise of the kind ever undertaken in the State. The whole country has been laid under contribution to make it successful, and the inducements held out to exhibitors are liberal. If the managers come up to their promises it cannot fail to be highly beneficial to the entire State and much of the South. Too much have our fairs been merely mutual admiration societies where the prizes were given without a full consideration of the merits of competitors.—We believe that the present fair will be the forerunner of many, by which the farming interests of North Carolina will be greatly benefited.

The late Senator Pomeroy of Kansas was shot by ex-Representative Conway of the same State, last Saturday, in Washington City. The weapon was a large revolver, from which three shots were fired, only one of which took effect. The wound proved to be only superficial, which is rather surprising, as the parties were not more than six feet apart when the fire was delivered. The attempt was justified by Mr. Conway on the ground that he and his family have been ruined by Mr. Pomeroy.—This ruin is supposed to have been achieved during the late disgraceful political contests in Kansas, which were disclosed towards the latter part of the late session of Congress.

The International Judicial Congress which is now in session at Brussels, has we suppose, for its object the consideration of peaceful arbitration as a means of settling national differences. It opened last Saturday and among those expected to participate is the arbitrator appointed by the King of Italy in the Geneva Conference.

The great differences settled between the United States and Great Britain at Geneva, and the prompt fulfillment of the award by the latter country, together with the recent settlement of some minor national disputes by arbitration, have caused people to look at it with more favor than it formerly obtained. War between England and America would have been disastrous to both, besides widening a breach which is slowly but surely closing. An appeal to arms was averted by means of which the friends of mankind throughout the world heartily approved. Although a declaration of peace against the world is not desirable just now, yet a partial disarmament of Europe would relieve the producers of a burden which is carried with great difficulty. If one-half or two-thirds of the armed men on the continent could be turned into profitable citizens, through the establishment of arbitration, it would be the most significant mark of progress which the history of the human race affords.

To the first two great nations which have employed arbitration for the settlement of grave questions and conflicting claims, great credit belongs; but perhaps the highest honor belongs to that one which has first repaired the wrong charged upon it, by complying with the judgment of the tribunal empowered to pronounce it.

It would be rather curious if the scheme of universal pacification should be inaugurated in the capital of that country which has furnished so many battle fields to the contending armies of Europe. In that case, the Lion of Waterloo should receive a companion statue—a lamb overshadowed by a dove.

It is pleasant to notice that Mrs. Patterson, ex-President Johnson's daughter, (her father's sins can never fall upon so fair a head) has taken the first premium for butter at a Tennessee fair. That's better than being a President's daughter, for we can do without President's daughters, but not without butter.

Sir H. Stafford Northcote, secretary to Mr. Russell Gurney, was married on Thursday last, at Montreal, to Miss Brooke, in the presence of many distinguished guests.

EDITORIAL BUDGET.

—The Ministers from Guatemala and Costa Rica have arrived at Madrid. They have instruction to recognize the republic.

—Private advices from San Domingo say that the revolutionists have organized, and will soon commence active operations.

—Intelligence has been received at St. Petersburg from Central Asia that the Maugsheek detachment of the Khivan expeditionary force evacuated the capital, Khaute, on the 21st of August. The Orenburg detachment left Urga on the 11th of September. The latter was expected to reach Orenburg on the 14th of this month.

—The funeral of the late Sir Edwin Landseer took place in London on the 11th instant, at St. Paul's Cathedral.—The remains were escorted from the Burlington House by a procession of members of the Royal Academy, including Earl Granville, Sir Francis Grant, George Robert Leslie, and George Cruikshank. The Queen and Prince of Wales were represented at the funeral. The body was deposited in the crypt in the cathedral.

—Twenty-seven members of the Municipal Council of Paris have published an address, in which they declare that the Assembly has no right to alienate the national sovereignty, affirm that the majority of the people reject the claim of Count de Chambord to the throne of France, and request the Deputies from the Department of the Seine to declare frankly how they propose to vote when the question of a change in government is brought up.

—Mr. Jay, American Minister to Vienna, has written to Washington recommending that provision be made for sending home from Vienna a number of waiters, laborers, and other Americans who are now in that city in a destitute condition. Many travelers, who hold letters of credit from suspended banking houses in the United States, find themselves without funds, and are compelled to accept friendly subscriptions to enable them to return home. A large number of English and French exhibitors at the Exposition have made application to Mr. Garretson to have their goods transported from Vienna to Philadelphia, where they may remain in readiness for the Exposition in that city in 1876.

To the Editor of the Daily Graphic:

Cesar the tyrant moved down from Lake George under the cover of last night's darkness, and captured Saratoga. He was accompanied by Mrs. Caesar, Miss Nellie Caesar, two little Caesars, and a few attending physicians. Some were bound in chains, others, including General Pontifex Maximus Babcock, had blood-marks on their faces and armor. Several heralds appeared in front with lances, while a crowd of captives in iron cages were left in the depot.

As the imperial party moved up the steps of Congress Hall, the blood-thirsty President was noticed to wear a tin crown set with diamonds; and sandals. The people generally fled with fear and consternation. General Babcock was ordered to capture General Banks or Senator Fenton, and bring them before the insatiable tyrant, who instantly cut off their heads. Reverdy Johnson, being blind in one eye, remained, Caesar advanced toward him, scowled through the eye-holes in his helmet, and remarked, "Old slave," says he, veni, vidie, vici, cum dig the taters!

"Vidig verae, non posi comi taters," replied Mr. Johnson, in the dead languages. Pontifex Maximus Babcock and the executioners now seized the ex-Senator, with several hundred women and children, and led them into the royal presence, when the cruel tyrant put out their eyes and threw them up the eavespout with his own hands.

On entering the dining-room at the sound of the trumpet, Caesar ordered all the plates uncovered in honor of his presence. Then, while turning his imperial glances upon the colored waiters, he ordered them to throw the guests out of the windows. At the same time he directed Robert Jackson, the head waiter, to kneel at his feet, while Pontifex Maximus placed upon his head a royal crown. Then the tyrant struck him with a spear eight times, saying:

"I, Caesar, pronounce and appoint you King of the Cannibal Islands, and Consul to the infernal city of Chicago."

"Quoque, tandem abutere patientia nostra, O Caesar!" remarked Congressman Hathorn, kneeling and wringing his hands.

"Arise, O, Conscript Father; I cannot lend you $4," replied Caesar, cutting off his legs and arms and laying his hand in the warm blood.

This morning, after Caesar, the little Caesars, and Mrs. Caesar had devoured several children for breakfast the Royal tyrant ordered Pontifex Maximus Babcock to put William Leland in irons, pump Congress Spring dry, and seal it up with sealing wax; and then he put on his breastplate and armor, and, armed with a cross-bow, proceeded to the Indian Encampment.

"Bind Fernando Wood and Governor Warmoth to yonder tree. I would shoot at a mark," ordered his Imperial Highness. Then drawing the bow he shot fifty or sixty arrows through Fernando Wood and Mr. Warmoth. Discovering Mr. W. S. Groesbeck, who had climbed up a tree to get out of his reach, Caesar shot thirty-six arrows through him, and then ordered the tree cut down. However, Mr. Groesbeck made his escape—an arrow escape. He fled—the arrows sticking in him—to Balston Spa, where he now exhibits himself as St. Sebastian in the daytime and lets himself out as a hat rack at night.

Returning to the Imperial palace, Caesar ordered his chariot, price $4, and was driven over to Cedar Bluff, on the lake. At the sound of the trumpet Mrs. Meyers appeared.

"Kill and instantly cook, on the gridiron, a tin pan full of black bass, woman, or die," shouted Caesar. He also remarked that people would live longer in that house if they brought—instantly brought—a basin full of stewed potatoes.

The potatoes were brought. After killing Mrs. Meyers' little boy, and cutting the throat of the bystanders, the tyrant returned to the royal palace—price $5 per day—and ordered Governor Dix to produce Commodore Vanderbilt.

"Shackle him and chain him to the cowcatcher, Pontifex," said Caesar, "he shall flag his own train." Then pardoning Postmaster Judson and ordering the convicts in Saratoga jail set free the bloodthirsty tyrant smote his breast, bit off a woman's ear, placed his left heel on Mayor Mitchell's neck, and left for Long Branch with his galley-slaves and bloody cohorts.

Alas! for the liberties of the oppressed, down-trodden people!

Olive Logan thinks the best way to put a stop to a gold panic is for a pretty woman to show her ankles around the Gold Board.

A citizen of Rock county, Wisconsin, is recorded to have said: "I can always tell water when I see it—it looks so much like gin."

The best farmers' motto we have heard of was exhibited at Lexington, Ill., the other day. It read: "None but live stock should be watered."

What is the difference between a tenant and the son of a widow? The tenant has to pay rents, but the son of a widow has not two parents.

"When was Rome built?" "In the night, sir." "In the night? What do you mean?" "Why, you know, sir, Rome was not built in a day."

Mrs. Jefferson Davis has recently recovered an elegant album of paintings that was "confiscated" by a Federal soldier during the time of the war.

"I declare, mother," said a pretty little girl, in a pretty little way, "tis too bad! You always send me to bed when I am not sleepy; and you always make me get up when I am sleepy."

A widow said to her daughter: "When you are at my age it will be time enough to dream of a husband." "Yes, mamma," replied the thoughtless girl, "of a second one." The mother fainted.

"Fred," said a young man, the other day, after listening to his wonderful story, "do you know why you are like a harp struck by lightning?" "No," says Fred: "I give it up." "Because a harp struck by lightning is a blasted lyre."

Jones dropped in at a closed bar the other day and purchased a glass of his favorite beverage. As he munched the customary clove he observed that the bar-tender had returned him short change. "Well," said the gentleman of the shirt-front and diamond pin, "we'll owe it to you, but what security can you give me?" asked the wary Jones. "Supposing you take a lean on the bar," was the reply.

well as the spiritual food, which is bountifully provided on the occasion.

THE circus last night was well attended. The various acts were as a general thing well performed. The balancing on the bottles was very fine, the music the best we have heard under canvass in many a day, and some of the riding fair. The hurdle act did not amount to much, and no lady riders appeared. On the whole, it was a good show and well conducted, though the menagerie portion was of but little ac-court.

FAIRBANKS' SCALES.-The readers of The World have been informed through its Vienna correspondence of the success of the various American inventions in the great Exposition, and of all the various articles of labor-saving machinery there exhibited none is more deserving of the award granted it than the celebrated Fairbanks' Scale. These scales have been referred to in our courts of law as the "standard," as the weight they indicate is always accepted by both buyer and seller. Some years ago, when exposing the false weights of various dealers in this city, The World did its test weighing upon a Fairbanks' scale, from which (as from a court of last re-sport) there could be no appeal. The highest prize at Paris in 1867, and now in Vienna, with the approval of the entire commercial classes, not only of this country but everywhere, stamps the Fairbanks' Scale as the one every dealer should possess. - N. Y. World, Sept. 16th, 1873.

THE TOWN CRIER.

Gold is 108 1/2.

A calm to-day.

The nights are very dark.

It turned cold last night.

Great excitement to-morrow.

Delightful weather for shows.

Superior Court meets next Monday.

Bring on your naval stores and cotton.

Grapes are still abundant and excellent.

Weill is "everlastingly" selling dry goods.

There are lots of headaches in a circus performance.

P. W. Fanning, one of the oldest Masons in this State, very low.

Why don't the mosquitoes depart with the circus? They are welcome to go.

Magnolia, by reason of the Great Eastern Circus, is lively to-day beyond compare.

The National Hotel dining room is a wonderful addition to the comfort of the guests.

A colored man was kicked by a mule yesterday, after we went to press, and badly injured.

There is no excuse now for not having good sidewalks, when we can get the prepared stone.

Smith Creek Bridge has been temporarily repaired, but we advise those who drive over it to be cautious.

See advertisement of House for rent, by Mr. Servoss. A good opportunity for any one wanting a home.

The Concert to be given next week, Wednesday, for the benefit of the Orphan Asylum, promises to be a fine affair.

Mrs. Strock is opening a fine assortment of Millinery. Ladies should give her a call at her new rooms on Princess street.

The city was remarkably quiet yesterday and last night, in spite of the circus and its attendant crowds. This speaks well for the crowds, and also for our vigilant police force.

It is to be hoped that the Great Eastern Circus, which will show here to-morrow, will not permit smoking under the canvass. We occasionally smoke ourselves, but do not see the propriety in puffing tobacco smoke among ladies.

George Myers is doing an immense business. Long lines of drays yesterday were bringing goods from the steamers and other drays, waiting their turn, were loaded with the goods to fill country orders. Many loads went on their destination without even going into the store.

THE day between the circuses is dull.

But few items are found for the poor creatures, who toil away their brief lives in the search of news for the many-headed j public. No Mayor's Court today. The Magistrates sit lazily back in their chairs, and while away the time by catching at the torpid flies, or discussing some legal point with a gentleman of the Bar. The dogs are quiet, even the one on the lot next the Post building, and no runaway horse enlivens or terrifies the streets. All is quiet, and reporters mourn.

THE SHOW OF THE SEASON--GREAT

EASTERN MENAGERIE AND CIRCUS.--

After a brilliant and successful tour of the principal cities, this widely known establishment has at last reached within a few miles of Wilmington. After the exhibition at Magnolia to-night, the grand combination of all that is new, fresh and novel in the saw-dust profession, will embark by special train for our city, and will arrive at Union Depot before daylight, in abundant time to comply with the programme as arranged by the management for three performances to-morrow.

The press of North Carolina generally has joined in the praises bestowed upon the Great Eastern, and are united in pronouncing it a truly gigantic and meritorious concern of its kind. Always among the first of our winter amusements, and the managers always fulfilling their advertised promises, as heretofore, we may predict for the show another hearty welcome to our city and for the public an entertainment in every respect deserving. There will be three performances--at 10 in the forenoon and at 2 and 7 p. m., as also a free show in the way of a balloon ascension, and a procession through the principal streets, the steam piano, several bands, and numerous other attractions being brought into requisition preparatory to the grand carnival and feast of fun, to take place within the immense twelve centre-pole pavilion, where for the first time we are to learn the workings of a double circus and behold the wonders of two rings and two separate corps of clowns, equestrians, acrobats, etc.

The Sentinel says a collection was to have been taken up in the Methodist Church in Raleigh on Sunday night in aid of the Oxford Orphan Asylum.

The Newbern Times says Emanuel Williams, a fireman employed on the engine of the freight train of the A. & N. C. R. R., had his foot badly crushed Friday morning, by having it caught in a part of the machinery of the engine which he was oiling at the time, the train being in motion.

The Raleigh News says a gentleman from Harnett county left that city Saturday evening on horseback, with the proceeds of several bales of cotton on his person. Last night at 12 o'clock his horse was found grazing near Rocky Branch, with the saddle and bridle on.

It is feared he was waylaid by the band of highwaymen infesting that neighborhood.

On Saturday, according to the Times, an individual in Newbern, who must have been intoxicated, mounted a horse at the depot, (just after the circus cavalcade had left,) and run him down on the sidewalk at break-neck speed to the imminent danger of life and limb. We saw several very narrow escapes of children from being killed, and one man knocked down, though but slightly injured. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the rider.

The News gives the following programme for the first day of the Fair (yesterday): "The Fair Grounds will be opened at 9 o'clock for the reception of visitors. The procession, composed of the Marshals, two bands, and others, will form in front of the Secretary's office in this city at 11 o'clock a. m. and proceed from thence to the Grounds. At 12 o'clock the Fair will be formally opened by Gov. Caldwell. At 2 o'clock a trotting race will take place, and at 3 o'clock a running race will come off.

The trains will commence running regularly to the Grounds to-morrow.

The Charlotte Observer tells the following: "On the day before yesterday, several persons in this city observed in the heavens an unusual sight, and one of which we would be glad to have an explanation. One or more long, filmy-looking lines extended apparently from the clouds to the earth, and while seeming stationary at either end, wavered between the ends, moving backward and forward and sometimes assuming a serpentine appearance. The object bore a resemblance to a huge spider web, and was gazed on with interest until it disappeared. It has been suggested that the object was only a spider web, but those who saw it, say that it was seen through an open space and far from any trees; besides that, it could be seen high above the top of any tree; so the fallacy of this argument is evident. If it was a cloud, it has taken a shape, direction and movements different from any cloud we have ever heard of. If there be any of an astronomical mind among us who thinks he can account for this phenomenon we would be glad to hear from him."

The trial of Marshal Bazaine was resumed at noon yesterday. The attendance was larger than on any day since the opening. The President of the Court began his examination of the accused by stating that he should consider the prisoner's responsibility as having commenced with the 12th of August.

He, however, put several questions in regard to events before that date.

In reply to questions concerning the disaster of Froinbach, Bazaine said that he had no knowledge that orders were given to the Generals direct. He was present at the council of war held by the Emperor on the 9th of August. It was then resolved that his army should be brought to the walls of Metz, and the movement in that direction began on the 11th. After reaching that city he received no orders to obtain ammunition. He complained of the carelessness of the intelligence service. He did not receive precise information of McMahon's situation until the 13th, and the orders to throw a bridge across the Moselle reached him only the day before.

He denied that he could be held responsible for the delay and subsequent failure to destroy the bridges to prevent the enemy's pursuit.

Telegraphic dispatches were read, showing that Bazaine intended to counteract the flank movement of the Germans, but that the Emperor prevented him from carrying out his plans.

Marshal Bazaine, in answer to further questions, answered concerning the 15th

August, stated that he agreed with the Emperor to march to Verdun, but the delay was caused by the battle, and he was otherwise hindered. He was unaware that the Emperor intended to depart from Metz. He declared that the Emperor left no special orders. It was well understood, however, that in the event of a strong resistance the army was to remain at Metz a few days, and not go beyond Verdun in any case. After the battle of the 16th, Leboeuf and Canrobert agreed with him that it was impossible to advance, responsible officers informed him that his supplies were insufficient. He said that he gave Canrobert all the aid he asked for at St.

Privat.

He blamed Ladmerault for not calling up the reserves. In justification of his conduct, after the 18th of August, he cited orders he had received to be cautious. The accused betrayed much excitement at the beginning of his examination, which was long and searching.

The council of war, before which Ranie was summoned to appear, has declared him guilty, and passed sentence of death in contumacy.
